Jodi Bouer's practice focuses on securing insurance coverage for individuals with disabilities. Ms. Bouer has a wealth of experience in the field of insurance coverage law. For over 12 years, she worked as an insurance litigator for some of the major law firms in New Jersey, and then as in-house coverage counsel for the CNA group of insurers. She has also taught Insurance Law at Seton Hall Law School.

After she started a family, Ms. Bouer was inspired to open her own law firm after successfully pursuing health insurance coverage for a family member, a gravely ill friend and a child on the autism spectrum. For the last four years, as the managing partner of Bouer Law LLC, she has filled the great need in New Jersey for an attorney that concentrates on representing policyholders, providers and insurance professionals in pursuit of health insurance coverage for persons with disabilities. Ms. Bouer's intimate knowledge of case law on the interpretation of insurance policy language and insight into how insurers assess their coverage obligations and process claims helps her obtain coverage reimbursements for clients.
